As a Project Manager at Advanced Ltd, you will collaborate across functions to strategically plan, execute, lead and successfully deliver projects. This includes the introduction of new products, feature enhancements, maintenance of existing products and ensuring overall alignment to the business strategy.

You'll be:

- Managing multiple global projects in parallel from concept to market, ensuring that resources are deployed effectively and prioritised in line with needs of the business
- Defining project scope, goals and deliverables to support business objectives in collaboration with product management, senior management and other key stakeholders
- Co-ordinating across functions and departments to deliver value to customers through a hybrid agile project management approach – to suit the business
- Fostering teamwork, establishing clear expectations, and providing clarity to all stakeholders throughout the organisation to ensure the delivery of the correct product with the desired quality
- Reporting and effectively communicating progress and overcoming issues to retain project momentum and focus on target dates
- Focusing on the development of best practices and tools, reviewing project management methodologies and making appropriate improvements
- Working in line with the high level of regulation and approvals associated with the fire industry

About you:

- You'll have a degree-level qualification in relevant subject or equivalent experience
- You'll have a track record of effectively delivering projects that result into tangible and marketable products, ideally related to physical manufactured products including software, electronic and mechanical aspects
- You'll be a self-starter who owns tasks and maintains momentum through the design process to full completion
- You solve problems creatively and demonstrate high integrity
- You're a team player with a 'can do' attitude

- You are an effective communicator, who is able to simplify complex information, and adjust communication style to meet the expectations of diverse audiences

What we offer:

- Competitive salary (and discretionary bonus)
- Contributory Pension
- Halma shares (after qualifying period)
- 25 days holiday (plus bank hols)
- Flexible start/finish times
- Full-time, permanent role within a growing company with real purpose
